INTRODUCTION

CREATING PARTNERSHIPS WITH THE NEEDY

VISION 2016

Our flagship project “VISION 2016” has just completed its 10-year time span. It was an ambitious plan to bring about transformation on the social landscape of the country. The plan envisaged the establishment of multifarious institutions across the country, with a strong human resource of committed volunteers and recognized community leaders.

It served the purpose of humanity and the Almighty as well. It was dedicated to going beyond charity by enabling the people to the optimum levels. Its true north lied in making a society having peace, prosperity and justice for all. It called for a society with justice for the maximum of the masses at large. It aimed at enabling the have-nots to access the resources for a total change in their lives and hence promotes the country to step into a new world. It helped people meet their social and spiritual needs by their own efforts. It strived to build trust and relationship with the needy people whose prosperity and security are ever at stake. The program intervened the needs of the day when one-thirds of country's population is hard to meet the basic amenities for its servility. It was all about total upliftment of the Indian society with a view to vertical mobility of every individual and group of people.

Up thrust areas of the program were Education, Healthcare, Micro Finance, Civil Rights and Women Empowerment. Target beneficiaries were defined by outcome of the Sachar Committee Report, i.e. Indian minorities. But focus goes to minorities residing in northern half of the country i.e. from Assam to Gujarat.

HUMAN WELFARE FOUNDATION

WHO WE ARE & WHAT WE DO

CONTEXT

India is now the sixth largest economy in the world on current GDP basis and the third largest economy in the world (in PPP terms) after the US and China, overtaking Japan in 2011. It is also a middle income country, and its GDP per capita in 2014 at normal exchange rate and PPP is $1627 and $5855, respectively. However, despite its middle income country status, its lagging development indicators put India in an unenviable situation. Table 1 reveals that, at almost 70%, India has the second largest proportion of population living below $2 a day (second only to Bangladesh). What is even more disconcerting, is that over a 16-year period (from 1994 to 2010) -the post liberalisation period where the economy has grown by leaps and bounds -this proportion has dropped only by about 12 percentage points.

This post-liberalisation period has also seen inequality emerge in a number of dimensions. Today, 53 billionaires in India own as much wealth as the bottom 50% of the population. Extreme inequality corrupts politics, hinders economic growth and stifles social mobility.

Crucially, the rapid rise of extreme economic inequality is standing in the way of eliminating poverty. Today, hundreds of millions of people are living without access to clean drinking water and without enough food to feed their families. We can only improve life for the majority if we tackle the extreme concentration of wealth and power in few hands. If India stops inequality from rising, it could end extreme poverty for 90 million people by 2019. If it goes further and reduces inequality by 36%, it could lift a further 83 million people out of poverty and virtually eliminate extreme poverty. ●

WAY FORWARD - VISION 2026

In 2005 Human Welfare Foundation embarked upon a highly consultative process that lasted almost one year to assess how to bring a sustainable change in the socio-economic status of the Muslims and other deprived communities of India. Under its flagship project, Vision 2016, it was decided to focus on the poorest and most marginalised social groups living in the poorest of India's states with the objective of closing the gaps between the two Indias. The last ten years we have focused on the North and North-East states of India where extreme poverty largely resides today. But the goals that we adopted under Vision 2016 plan are far from accomplished. Even back then it was envisaged that the first ten years program period will be a time slice of a much longer period - 20 years? 30 years? and even more - that will be needed to accomplish the goals of the program.

This plan (Vision 2026) therefore continues along the path laid out in the first plan but with some important modifications. Based on the learnings from the first program, we are also modifying our approach by aiming to engage with a wider cross-section of the public so as to build a larger supporter and donor base. And we will also be aiming to build many more types of partnerships so that we can leverage our work and become more beneficial collectively in order to achieve the very ambitious goals and targets that we have set out for ourselves for the coming ten years. Through the Vision 2026 program, we aim to create a just and harmonious society where everybody shares and cares for the poor, unprivileged and exploited people and make our society a better place to live in.

OBJECTIVES OF VISION 2026

1. To strive for a holistic and sustainable development work among the poor, marginalized, downtrodden, illiterate, vulnerable and the exploited ones, irrespective of their caste, creed, language, sex or religion.
2. To bring about a positive socio-economic change in the lives of Indian Muslims and other deprived communities and to uplift their status at par with the national average in thematic areas of human development.
3. To enable them to contribute towards nation building in all spheres of life.
4. To strive for making India a just and compassionate nation in which all people will have the opportunity to achieve their optimum potential. ●

STRATEGY:

An inclusive change

A report by National Council for Applied Economic Research (NCAER) has brought to light some astonishing figures, according to which three out of ten Urban Muslims are poor i.e. officially come below the poverty line living on a monthly income of Rs 550 and less. The rural Muslims are more troubled as they are further down the scale. One in five rural Muslims comes below poverty line. The condition of Dalits and Adivasis are equally vulnerable.

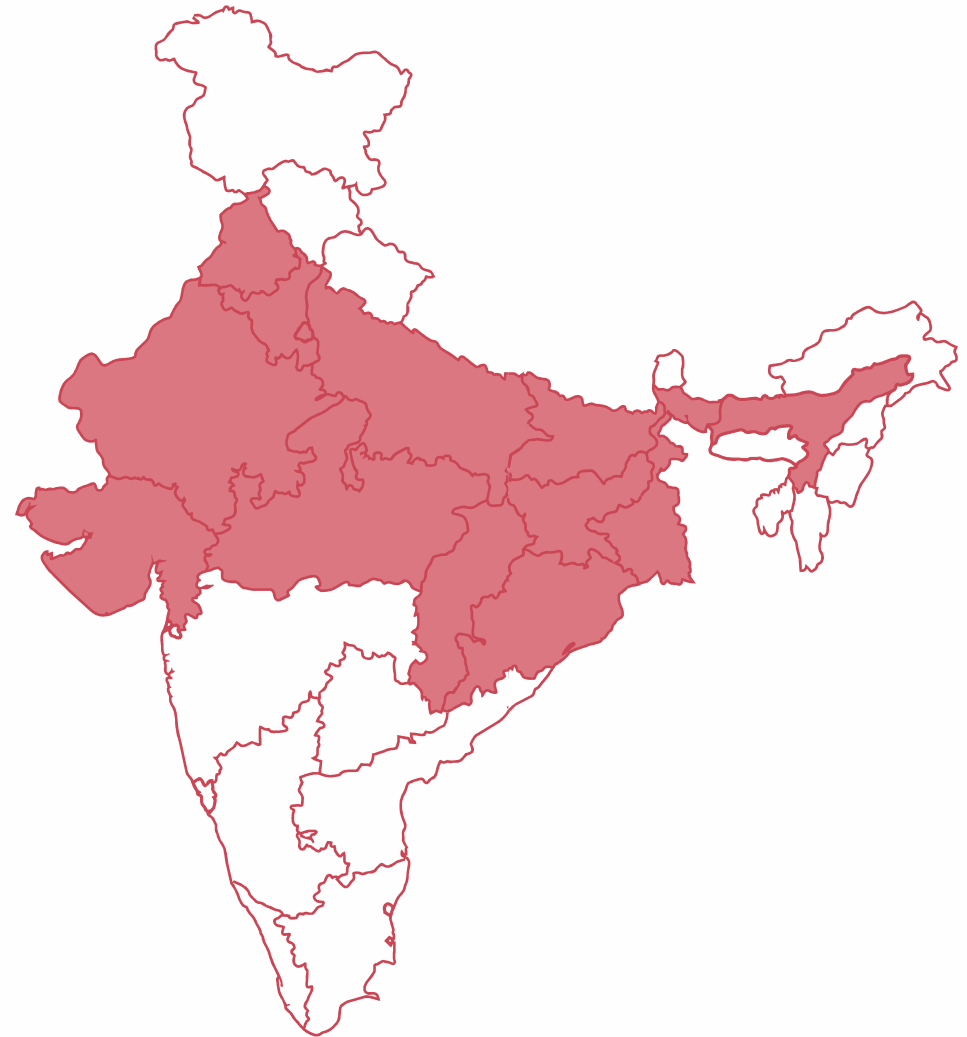

METHODOLOGY

- Focused targeted social change with clear, measurable goals.
- Inclusive & participatory approach
- Sustainable module of change
- Leverage available resources

According to the Kundu Committee report, Muslims continue to be left out of both government jobs and the urbanisation wave. Moreover, the basic advantages of a better sex ratio and higher birth weight have been wasted due to a lack of health facilities in areas dominated by Muslims and a high school drop-out rate.

In this backdrop, Human Welfare Foundation has devised a strategy of Inclusive and sustainable change. This strategy aims to consolidate and build upon the work initiated in the first phase of the plan Vision 2016. Our approach will be guided by the objective of reducing inequality and vulnerability by closing the gaps between “the haves” and “the have-nots” based on geography, class, caste, religion and gender. Our interventions will be guided by the broader purpose we have committed ourselves to in our strategy.

“Acquire knowledge, and learn tranquility and dignity.”

Education

Development is a central imperative in today's globalized world. But achieving sustainable all-round development for society requires certain fundamental pillars in place. Education is one such pillar without which any future growth is inconceivable. To imagine growth with large parts of the country bounded in illiteracy is just impossible. More so, in today's information based society, where education is the key to a whole world of opportunities. Not only that, a whole host of issues in fields of healthcare, economic opportunity, women empowerment and community building can be traced to a lack of proper education.

In spite of remarkable achievements in the field of education, India's position is extremely poor as compared with other Third World countries. Per-capita expenditure on education in India is one of the lowest in the world and is going down in real terms. High school enrollment rates are marred by equally high drop-out rates. Almost half of the Indian population is still illiterate; India harbors the largest mass of illiterate population in the world. Even the minimal infrastructure, such as proper classrooms, desks, drinking water facility and toilets, is missing in a large number of schools.

Given the evident benefits of an education, why do so many children fail to get one? Cost is one of the more obvious reasons why children do not get access to education, given that some families must meet their essential needs – food and shelter – first. Parents may need their children to work to supplement household income, do household chores or care for sick family members.

Conversely, many children who do attend school receive an inadequate education because of poorly trained or underpaid teachers, overcrowded classrooms and a lack of basic tools such as textbooks, blackboard, even chalk, pencil and paper.

Operational Ethos:

Education provides the key for a better future, helping people to increase their skills, fulfil their potential and pursue their goals. But millions of children across India are denied even basic education. We aim to provide impoverished communities with access to education or training, which offers them a way out of poverty. By working directly with local communities, we ensure that our educational projects are relevant to their needs.

We believe that access to education is not just a basic human right, but a key factor in reducing child labor and poverty. In HWF, we strive to bring the un-enrolled children back to school seats, we build and reconstruct schools and educational facilities and ensure to create a healthy teaching environment.

Healthcare

Healthcare and adequate nutrition are basic human necessities which everyone should have access to. Unfortunately, for many they are merely unaffordable luxuries. One of the banes of modern medicine is the exorbitant cost of remedy that has rendered medical services in many parts of the world inaccessible to the poor. The consequences of this situation are dire indeed as easily preventable and treatable diseases are causing death and unnecessary long term suffering to millions.

Universal access to education and healthcare are fundamental necessities for any society to progress. No nation has achieved a developed status without fulfilling these two basic requirements. Without good health, the survival and economic self-sufficiency of individuals and their communities are in jeopardy. This is because apart from the straightforward thesis that links healthcare to the well-being of citizens, it also enhances the productive capacity of its population thereby enhancing economic growth.

India's healthcare infrastructure is largely inadequate to serve its vast population. To begin with, the total number of hospitals and healthcare professionals, public and private included, fall short of addressing the total demand for healthcare services, despite being large in numbers. According to the latest KPMG report, around 80 per cent of all doctors and 75 per cent of dispensaries serve 28 per cent of the country's population.

Dismal healthcare expenditure has aggravated the inadequacy of our healthcare infrastructure. India accounts for over 17 per cent of the world's population while spending less than 1 per cent of the world's total health expenditure. Our total healthcare expenditure stands at 4.1 per cent of GDP, which is among the lowest in the world.

Operational Ethos:

Responding to this need, Human Welfare Foundation (HWF) implements a wide array of health and nutrition projects, providing basic and supplementary medical services for populations in dire need. HWF is committed to the provision of quality healthcare and nutritious food to those who are most in need. Our Health & Medical programmes aim to provide primary healthcare facilities for those who are deprived of this basic necessity.

HWF also conducts training for doctors, provides hospital medical equipment and develop health awareness programme. Our other projects include organizing medical camps, blood donation camps, donating medicines and providing low cost mobile and clinic-based healthcare facilities for the rural poor.

Interest-Free Micro Finance and Poverty Alleviation

India is the fastest growing large economy in the world today. Despite this, one in every five Indians is poor.

Muslims, the largest minority who make up 14.2% of India's 1.25-billion population, come out pretty much at the bottom of most socio-economic indices, even a decade after a high-level government probe into their historical disadvantages led to policy actions. Almost a quarter of India's 370,000 beggars are Muslims, newly released data from the 2011 Census show, reinforcing that the community still lags on most counts despite the country's rapid economic growth.

The roots of poverty in India run the deepest among the members of scheduled castes and tribes in the country's rural areas. In 2005, these groups accounted for 80 per cent of poor rural people, although their share in the total rural population is much smaller.

Sahulat Micro Finance Society was established under Vision 2016 program as a specialized organisation to focus on the economic development of underprivileged and weaker people.

Sahulat facilitates and supports livelihood opportunities and micro enterprise development for poverty alleviation through provision of Interest Free Micro finance.

Interest-Free Micro finance

Interest free micro finance is an effective tool to fight against poverty. Sahulat's Interest Free micro finance Program through its affiliated credit cooperative societies focuses on efforts that empower communities to lift themselves out of poverty.

Projects include interest-free loan schemes and developing small businesses, such as vegetable and dairy production. Our target beneficiaries are the most vulnerable members of a community, like women and the elderly.

Operational Ethos:

One of Vision 2016's major objectives is to implement sustainable living by reducing dependence on interest based credit services. To achieve this object, Sahulat is committed to come up with innovative interest free tools which can help in poverty alleviation and promote sustainable living.

This involves education initiatives, use of economic incentives and the development of new and appropriate technologies. These are important to ensure families are able to maintain stable incomes and be provided an opportunity to make a change in their lives.

“ To appropriately respond to an emergency requires a very clear mind, to coolly analyze what the observations are and how to fix it. ”

Buzz Aldrin

Responding to Emergencies

HWF responds to three basic types of emergencies – each type determines the nature and scale of our support. They are:

Sudden-Onset Emergency: earthquakes, floods, landslides, tsunamis, cyclones and industrial accidents.

Slow-Onset Emergency: drought and epidemics, etc.

Complex Emergency: communal conflicts and dislocations.

In the wake of a disaster, whether of natural causes or man-made, it is essential that help and relief aid arrive as quickly as possible. This is important to ensure that survivors do not endure prolonged suffering and also to prevent outbreak of diseases due to unmanaged contamination. HWF leverages the skills, resources, networks and local NGO partners for effective and efficient assistance in delivering humanitarian aid during disasters.

HWF believes in the rights of all individuals to receive aid in an emergency, based on need. However, women and children face disproportionate risks in emergencies, such as forcible displacement and human rights violations, so emergency responses often are planned to meet their immediate needs.

In emergencies, children are particularly vulnerable to being separated from their families, exploited sexually and made victims of gender-based violence, such as rape. Groups particularly at risk during an emergency include: disabled children, gender-based violence survivors, adolescents, out-of-school youth, unaccompanied minors and orphans.

Operational Ethos:

HWF's operational ethos is based on a holistic humanitarian and development assistance cycle of Relief, Recovery, and Rebuild (RRR) response. At onset of disaster, HWF works to provide immediate emergency assistance (Relief), then rehabilitate broken lives (Recovery), and eventually invest in long term development (Rebuild) of the community.

Society for Bright Future (SBF), a national level disaster management organisation, was formed as part of Vision 2016 program. SBF specializes in Emergency Relief and Rehabilitation and has quickly responded to all natural and man-made disasters in recent past.

The Emergency and Relief program of SBF includes providing survival items like food, water, clothes, shelter and medical care during emergencies. Also involves training in preparing for and coping with disasters. The Rehabilitation program includes the handicapped assistance program, reconstruction of residential and commercial properties of the affected population and employment assistance, etc.

Civil Rights Protection

In its report on human rights in India during 2010, Human Rights Watch stated India had "significant human rights problems". They identified lack of accountability for security forces and impunity for abusive policing including "police brutality, extrajudicial killings, and torture" as major problems.

A large number of under-trial people are waiting for justice in Indian prisons. Poor people are vulnerable to all kinds of exploitation including legal exploitation. Many people are in jails just because they can not afford a few hundred rupees for bail. Legal help is among the prime needs of many poor people in India.

Along with advocates, social activists and grassroots para-legal social workers dedicated to using the legal system to protect and advance the civil and human rights in India, we try to address these problems in order to alleviate the sufferings of the victims of police brutality. During the past years, we have been working to defend the rights of the underprivileged sections of the society and to provide legal aid assistance, protection and rehabilitation to the survivors of intolerance and all sorts of discrimination and oppression.

We are committed to the protection of society from violation of human rights, Illegal detentions, custodial deaths, fake encounters, false cases on the behest of political exigencies, unprovoked firing on demonstrators, criminal negligence of officials and public servants at the time of natural and manmade calamities and consumer frauds by local manufacturers and service providers and Multinational Companies.

Operational Ethos:

Through our robust network of social activists and grassroots para-legal social workers, we are committed to make our country a better place to live in where all citizens will enjoy their rights.

Following are some of the very basic but important interventions which we have undertaken in this regard:

- Helping Citizens get ration card and similar services, which become difficult for a poor person due to lack of knowledge about the process of getting one.
- Helping retired government employee in getting their pensions.
- Helping people in benefiting from the government aid schemes.

“ Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) Said,
The best charity is giving water to drink.”

Water & Sanitation

Water is a basic human necessity and a vital natural resource for all aspects of life. Today, more than a billion people lack access to safe drinking water. “Unfortunately, access to clean water is a right that has been denied to many of the poorest people in the world.” People’s lives are deeply affected from water poverty and its devastating consequences when they have no access to clean water, sanitation and hygiene awareness.

According to the report issued by the World Health Organisation (WHO) and UNICEF, India is home to 97 million people without an access to improved water supplies. Over all, there are still 780 million people without access to an improved drinking water source.

The health burden of poor water quality is enormous. It is estimated that around 37.7 million Indians are affected by waterborne diseases annually, 1.5 million children are estimated to die of diarrhoea alone and 73 million working days are lost due to waterborne disease each year. The resulting economic burden is estimated at $600 million a year.

If we look at the present scenario, we are leading towards crisis. About 85 % of rural population in India is solely depended on ground water, which is depleting at a fast rate. In the urban areas though about 60% of the population is depended on surface water sources, the availability and quality are questionable. In addition to this, the contamination of rivers and wells in rural areas is an increasing problem caused in part by the rapid depletion of the ground water table.

Human Welfare Foundation recognizes the critical importance of the issue and focuses on the most affected areas to tackle water poverty, by providing people with sources of clean water, constructing toilets, restoring sanitation facilities and educating communities about the best hygiene practices. Human Welfare Foundation believes that everyone should be able to access clean water and that this access underpins all other aspects of development.

Operational Ethos:

HWF’s water and sanitation programmes incorporate building infrastructure, improving sanitation and developing hygiene awareness.

“ Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) Said,
The one who cares for an orphan and myself will be together in Paradise.”

Orphan Care

Orphaned children are among the most vulnerable in society. They are often left in the care of elderly relatives who do not have the ability to support them and often consequently receive no education and are driven into work at a very early age missing out on a real childhood and education. This obviously affects them for the rest of their lives and they are not able to develop into respectable members of society.

Our Orphan Care Programme is designed to address the needs of the orphans and improve their lives in a way that respects and preserves the customs and traditions of the communities in which they reside. Through Orphan Care Program we not only assist orphans and needy children, but also benefits the communities in which they live.

Our scheme runs in northern and eastern states of India and we sponsor children of all faiths, gender, ages and abilities. Our local partners keep an eye on the progress of these children and make sure that they are getting the best possible care.

Operational Ethos:

Our Orphan Care programme is dedicated to providing quality assistance for orphans regardless of their religion, creed or gender. It also strives to ensure orphans receive the basic necessities of life - providing them with food, clean water, regular medical check-ups and education.

Community Development

No man can live alone. We always need our family, friends and the community around us, in good times and bad. Unfortunately, we often forget that community needs our help too.

Small acts of kindness can go a long way to bring a smile on another's face. It costs little, yet does a lot. That is the reason why Human Welfare Foundation, through Vision 2026 program, is engaged in helping the poor and destitute. HWF is one of the leading humanitarian set-ups of the country, which cater to various needs of the underprivileged.

Operational Ethos:

To improve the quality of lives of those living in poverty and social exclusion, HWF is implementing a wide array of community development projects such as Housing and Shelter for poor and victims of disaster, Ramadan Food packets, Charity Food (Udhiya Project), Winter Relief Project, Marriage Assistance and Grameen Dosti (Model Village) Project.

Marriage Assistance

Many poor parents cannot afford to get their daughters married with dignity and pride. Most of the orphan girls find it difficult to get married due to the loss of their parents. Getting married is a distant dream for a large number of girls belonging to the lower and middle class of the Indian society due to the social evils like DOWRY.

HWF realises the gravity of the situation and difficulty many poor families are in and provides marriage assistance funds to deserving families.

Operational Ethos:

HWF is committed to provide the orphan and needy girls with the necessary assistance in getting married with dignity. We are committed to make the institution of marriage easy for all sections of the society.

Winter Relief

Millions of homeless in national capital and rest of India battle hard, every year, to overcome the "nightmares" of winter times. Winter is a "test of survival" for homeless in India. With dipping temperatures, in north India, and no warm clothes to protect them from the chill, hundreds of homeless die every winter in India.

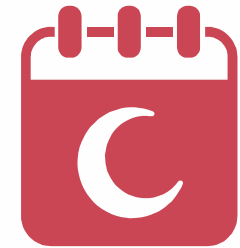

However, with the help of generous and concerned people like you, we try to change this every year.

Operational Ethos:

To help protect the homeless/needy people from the killing weather in winters, we are committed to provide blankets to as many as we can. Together, we will provide comfort to our fellow citizens who unfortunately, have fallen through society's racks.

BENEFICIARIES

Ramadan Food and Udhiya

Vision 2016's Ramadan Food and Udhiya programme has been instrumental in getting Food Aid to vulnerable people in poverty ridden areas throughout the country in the blessed month of fasting and the sacred festival. Among the programmes implemented during Ramadan, Iftar gatherings, distribution of Iftar Kits and Zakat-ul-Fitr see beneficiaries receive either ready cooked food or packet of food items that can feed their family for at least one month.

We ensure that those who receive Udhiya food aid are among the most vulnerable in their communities, which include widows, orphans, the elderly, internally displaced persons, refugees and the poor.

Gramin Dosti - Model Village Project

68.9% of India's population lives in rural areas. Though this number is expected to fall in the coming years, it is still estimated that more than half of our population would be rural even in 2050. Despite there being several initiatives by governments at all levels, the level of improvement has not kept pace with the rising aspirations. On most development parameters, there is still a significant gap between rural and urban India.

One reason for the failure of rural development schemes has been the lack of a holistic focus on the village as a unit. Separate flagship schemes targeting different sectors such as health (NRHM), education (SSA) and livelihood (NREGA, NRLM) have been launched in the past, but met with limited success. HWF's "Grameen Dosti" concept could address these challenges comprehensively. It can address resource deficits in each of these sectors, with adequate focus on the special needs of every village.

Through its 'Grameen Dosti' project, HWF aims at:

- Contributing towards social empowerment by engaging all sections of the community in the task of village development.
- Preventing distress migration from rural to urban areas, which is a common phenomenon in India's villages due to lack of opportunities and facilities that guarantee a decent standard of living.
- Creating and sustaining a culture of cooperative living for inclusive and rapid development.

Low Cost Housing

- More than 100 million people are homeless worldwide, and 78 million are found in India.
- 63% of the homeless people are slum dwellers.
- 40% of the homeless are from urban areas.
- 11 million children are living on the streets.

People living, eating and sleeping on the streets is a regular sight in India. Millions of poor who cannot afford to buy a roof over their head end up on the footpaths and flyovers of flourishing metros of India. They are elderly people, physically and mentally challenged, flood and drought victims. Even women, children and unemployed youths embrace the footpath as shelter.

Life on the streets is fraught with many dangers. Horror stories ranging from acid attacks, sexual abuse, police and goon atrocities to regular fights for two square meals. India's homeless population, who have no roofs over their heads, are leading a hellish life.

Every human being needs a place to live in - without the safety of a home, poverty and its affects damage all aspects of a family and community's life and their future prosperity.

Operational Ethos:

To help build the lives of those in poverty and re-build those affected by disaster, HWF builds emergency shelters and permanent houses for those in needs in the short term and long term.

Nagrik Vikas Kendra

The Indian government has established an extensive social welfare system. Several programmes designed for betterment and enhancement of quality of life for SC, ST, BC, Minorities, women, etc stand proof to it.

Huge number of programs have been set in motion by the government till date, along with the large sums of money which have been allocated for the same. Looking at these programs, there remains no doubt about the government's intention to provide assistance for the poor and facilitating their upliftment, but it is the implementation process that leaves a lot to be desired.

Both central and state governments have launched several schemes for the social and economic upliftment of the SC, ST, Backward Castes, Minorities, women and differently abled, etc. Unfortunately a large number of target beneficiaries are still unaware of these schemes. A large part of allocated funds for these schemes remain unspent due to lack of knowledge and initiatives on part of Civil society organizations.

HWF has decided to put concerted efforts in this particular domain so that government's social and economic welfare schemes reach the target beneficiaries. HWF has decided to establish development facilitation centers across the country under the name of Nagarik Vikas Kendra and has made plans to work with local civil society organizations in order to sensitize the communities in need.

Operational Ethos

Nagarik Vikas Kendra aims at enabling the deprived sections of society to live a self sustainable life with dignity, harmony and happiness through adequate access to welfare schemes for strengthening the nation building and democratic process.

Women Empowerment

With two-thirds of the world's illiterate population female and countless girl children not receiving a basic education, supporting women in developing countries is vital to helping overcome critical social issues such as poverty and unemployment.

By supporting women in society and giving them access to opportunities such as an education, jobs and health care, everyone benefits. Infant mortality rates go down, more children stay in school, incomes increase and the cycle of poverty can be broken.

In India, women are born into a society that is still having to face social inequalities. Through our initiatives, we aim to assist in gender empowerment through various educational, healthcare and income initiatives and empower local women by educating them on their rights the opportunities available to them.

The main goal of this program is to enhance the capacities and capabilities of women, to develop and implement programmes aimed at improving the standards of living of their communities through sustainable use of the environment and the available resources.

Operational Ethos

Vision 2026 programme is committed to sustainable and invaluable women's empowerment initiatives. As part of our commitment to women's empowerment, we have plans to do the following:

- Establishing a National Level NGO dedicated for Women's Empowerment.
- Establishment of Skill & Entrepreneurship Development Centre for Women.
- 20 Centres for Women/Street Child Rescue and Rehabilitation across India.

Skill Development and Training

Many people are stuck in a poverty trap because they do not have the resources to develop their skills and work their way out of destitution. Income generation opportunities empower impoverished people to learn new skills, achieve self-sufficiency and improve their livelihoods.

With the changing economic scenario and global competitiveness there is a yawning mismatch between the skilled manpower required and skilled manpower available. Every year we churn out millions of graduates who do not have the specific skill sets required by the market. The most pressing need of the hour is to create a pool of qualified and knowledgeable skills to narrow the gap between demand and supply of skilled manpower. Vocational training will not only create an equilibrium of demand and supply but will also help a number of unemployed youth find work and live a decent life.

In backdrop of this, Vision 2026 program has came up with a plan to establish

- five Cooperatives for Modernisation of Traditional Occupations,
- fifty Vocational Skills Development Centres
- Skill & Entrepreneurship Development Courses for Women.

Operational Ethos

We are committed to providing individuals and communities with skills training and small-scale, interest-free business loans, which will offer them dignified and sustainable ways of making a living.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION....

Changing Lives with your skills, time and Money

The generosity and kindness of individuals, groups or organisations has allowed Human Welfare Foundation (HWF) to deliver life changing programmes for last 10 years. Thousands like you, who persevere day in and day out as volunteers and partners of this humane venture, form its backbone, putting in a lot of effort and time to turn this dream into reality.

We take this opportunity to acknowledge and appreciate the value of your treasured support. The poor who cannot afford a set of clothes, the countless starving sisters forced to sell their honour for a few crumbs, parents too indigent to pay for the legal fights for their unjustly incarcerated children, and millions of kids so far denied a chance for education - all these look up to the generous people like you - with desperate hope. If we can leave aside a small portion of any extravagances on weddings, dinner parties, entertainments and the like, it will mean a lot for them: one meal for the hungry, a pair of clothes for the needy, a scholarship for a child.

The destitute need your support in cash and kind and you are capable enough to support the noble cause of catering to their needs. We expect your helping hands ever in future so that the dark present of those people can be lightened in near future. It's only people like you who make us confident enough to take new initiatives.
